Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Sermon on the Death of Garfield And Samuel died; and all the Israelites were gathered together and lamented him, and buried him in his house at Ramah. - I Samuel, xxv.: i. Our Nation is to-day in tears. She has clothed herself in a robe of sorrow, and, like a fond mother, she weeps over the loss of her noble son. The awful tragedy begun at Washington has ended at Elberon. The dark cloud which enveloped the Nation on the second of July, instead of being dissipated in accordance with our hopes and prayers, grew darker and darker, until at last it settled down into the black night of September 19th. The whole world now knows that Garfield is dead. To-morrow a great host will gather together in Cleveland to join in the funeral march, and there in the city he loved so well, and which is so near his own house, they will with sad hearts and tender hands bury our dead out of our sight. The attitude of Israel towards its dead Priest is the attitude of America towards its dead President. As all Israel lamented the death of Samuel, so all America laments the death of Garfield. There is something very touching and very tender about the early life of Samuel. Every child loves to read it.
